- The Chicago Metropolitan Agency for Planning (CMAP) hosts a series of free public workshops this summer called GO TO 2040 "Invent the Future", where the feedback you contribute will help them create a scenario that will best reflect the region's desired future. Takes place Wednesday from 6-8pm at the Transportation Research and Analysis Computation Center (TRACC) DuPage Airport Authority Flight Center, 2700 International Drive, West Chicago, IL 60185. Go here for directions, and here to register.
- Also Wednesday: Laurie Zoloth, Ph.D., Director of Northwestern University's Center for Bioethics at Northwestern University and Mark Siegler, M.D., Director of The University of Chicago's MacLean Center for Clinical Medical Ethics, discuss the at times ambiguous boundaries of bioethics, and how the implications of this affect our everyday lives. 6-7:30pm, Thorne Auditorium, Northwestern School of Law, Arthur Rubloff Building (375 E. Chicago Ave.). Free, but register (recommended) by calling (773) 947-3150 or e-mailing rsvp@sciencechicago.com.
