Website and kiosks allow Chicagoans to help plan the city's future

NEIGHBORHOOD Go to 2040 is Chicago's program that allows residents to plan the future of their city using interactive tools. Users can change transportation investment numbers and create their own growth scenarios on kiosks throughout the city or on the Go to 2040 website.(Chitowndailynews.Org)

This is a great way to get residents more involved with the city and provides a great outlet for them to express themselves.
