

37°

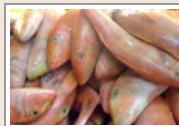

REGISTER | SIGN IN

GO

OUR CITIES: Austin

chicagoist

HOME

NEWS

ARTS AND EVENTS

FOOD

POPULAR

Contribute Top Users Advertise

SUMMARY

GO

TIPS

tips@chicagoist.com

chicagoist DAILY

The day's most popular stories from Chicagoist every evening in your inbox from our new letter.

EMAIL (required)

SUBSCRIBE

Metropulse Chicago Launches

Metropulse Chicago, a joint effort of the Chicago Metropolitan Agency for Planning and the Chicago Community Trust that serves as the lynch pin for their Regional Indicators Project, launched today. Metropulse intends to serve as an open source portal for media, government officials and concerned citizens interested in tracking the regional quality of life of the greater Chicago area.

We may be oversimplifying this, but think of Metropulse as a hyperlocal wiki for all the things that affect us in the area. From poverty to air quality; health care and community organizing; poverty to civil service, Metropulse has the potential to help everyone from the smallest of neighborhood non-profits to City Hall take a new approach to old problems. The site also will serve in the implementation of CMAP's GO TO 2040 Plan.

By Chuck Sudo in News on November 17, 2010 4:00 PM  1 Comment  2 Likes 583 Views

CHICAGO COMMUNITY TRUST

CHICAGO METROPOLITAN AGENCY FOR PLANNING

DATABASE

METROPULSE CHICAGO

POLICY

WEBSITES

WIKI

ABOUT CHICAGOIST