High-occupancy vehicle (HOV) lanes are limited to use by multi-passenger vehicles, including public buses and carpools. In some cases, these lanes also allow motorcycle use or single-occupant vehicles who pay a fee or “toll” to use the lane (HOT lanes).

HOV lanes

Images (clockwise from main image):
- High occupancy vehicle lane in Toronto, Canada. Source: Jesse Fitzscy.
- Additional images: Sources: bankbryan, Flickr.

Facility Types | Basic transit facilities