The recent evaluation of the LTA program highlighted the importance of local commitment. One recommended program change meant to increase local commitment is to assess a local match, beginning with the next call for projects in May of this year. (Recommendations for how to administer the local match are described in this memo.)

- 5.0 Local Technical Assistance (LTA) Program: Fox River Corridor Plan – Brian Daly, CMAP
CMAP is working with the Villages of Algonquin and Carpentersville on a corridor plan to increase access to the Fox River, improve water quality, and enhance the downtown area of each community. The Fox River Corridor Plan was inspired by the recently completed LTA plans for Downtown Algonquin and Old Town Carpentersville, both of which include recommendations to enhance recreational use of and access to the Fox River. The upcoming plan will focus on safe walking and bicycling connections along the riverfront, connections to regional trails and open space, access to water-based recreation and environmental resources, and water quality. Brian will provide more details on the project, including some of the key findings from the existing conditions analysis.

- 6.0 Transit-Oriented Development Resident Survey Results Report – Heather Tabbert, RTA
There is limited research in the Chicago region identifying which factors motivate people to move to a transit-oriented development (TOD). This research is necessary to inform and enhance planning for TOD areas. In early 2014, the RTA administered a 32-question online survey that was sent to 38,000+ residents who live within a ½ mile radius of 14 suburban transit stations. The results provide a better understanding of why individuals chose to live in a TOD area and how their travel habits differ from when they lived at their previous residence. The survey also collected information about how the availability of transit service and living in a TOD area may impact lifestyle choices and travel behaviors. This information can help inform local planning and land use decisions. Heather will provide an overview of the survey's findings.
